ANGRY WORDS.

Angry words are lightly spoken
In a rash and thoughtless hour;
Brightest links of life are broken
By their deep, insidious power.
Hearts inspired by warmest feeling
Ne'er before by anger stirred,
Oft are rent past human healing
By a single angry word.

Poison drops of care and sorrow,
Bitter poison drops are they,
Weaving for the coming morrow
Saddest memories of to-day.
Angry words! oh, let them never
From the tongue unbridled slip;
May the heart's best impulse ever
Check them ere they soil the lip.

Love is much too pure and holy,
Friendship is too sacred far,
For a moment's reckless folly
Thus to desolate and mar.
Angry words are lightly spoken,
Bitterest thoughts are rashly stirred,
Brightest links of life are broken
By a single angry word.

The Artist's Love.

It was just in the shadow of the ruined walls which towered above the blue, shining waters of the river, and when the tide was high, dropped down the long trailing ivy vine to kiss the shining waves—they sat, two women. One, with her arm resting upon a broken column, her dark eyes with the memory of the long ago stirring their brilliancy into life, gazed afar out at the floating cloud, her face a sad reflection of the past, while the other, many years younger, half knelt at her feet and with a smile on her red lips and the light of hope in her glorious eyes, played with the light moss upon the bank beside her.

To the artist eyes of Ralph Bertram, who was wandering down the River and came upon them, it was a perfect harmony of light and shade, an exact subject for a masterpiece, and then he sat down and sketched until the darkness shrouded the whole and shut it out from his view.

He took his sketch home and for hours sat and gazed upon it, enraptured with the glorious beauty of the faces. Who were they, or rather, who was she? Who was the girl, with her dreamy, happy face and dark, melting eyes, with their hopefulness and truth?

When morning dawned, he went down again to the river's bank, and watched and waited for hours, but they never came. He enquired of every passer, but no one knew them. One would say:

"Ah, yes, I have seen them—two women, one old and sad, the other young and happy. I do not know their names."

And another would declare he never was aware of their existence, and thus Ralph found his search a vain one. He was working day and night upon his picture, and at last it was complete, and when he went up to his studio in the city, and placed it there, his friends held up their hands in admiration and worshipped it, and before many days it found a place in the most renowned Art Gallery, and all the world went crazy over it. Thus Ralph Bertram became celebrated, and orders came in on him faster than he could fill them, and all the wealth and beauty in the city smiled upon and petted him. He was admitted in every parlor, party, soiree and reception; he became the lion of the season, and far and near his praises were sung. But to him it was as nothing when thoughts of his beloved picture came, and hour after hour he sat and gazed upon that beautiful face like one entranced.

"I believe, Mr. Bertram, that you are positively in love with that young face," said a belle, as she came upon him in the gallery. "Was it from life, or your own imagination that you painted it?"

"From life."

"Impossible! It must have been a dream! No living woman was ever possessed of such beauty."

The lady went away, and before night one half of the world was jealous of his picture, and declared him crazy. It must be so, for no woman ever possessed such rare beauty. It was a dream, a hallucination.

Bertram heard it and laughed. Perchance the day might come when he could bring his wondrous beauty before them and convince them, and with this hope he labored and sought far and wide.

It was a cold, bitter night, and round the corners the wind swept, bringing with it fitful gusts of hard, cutting sleet, and penetrating to the bone every unfortunate who chanced to be abroad. Bertram came briskly down the street from his studio, warmly wrapped in heavy coat and furs, with a vision of his pleasant rooms before him and lightly humming an opera. He had turned from the principal street, and was walking alone where all was quiet, when he suddenly came upon two women, who stood near the iron railing in front of the house.

"Mother," said one, "it is but a little further. Do try to keep up. Here, lean on me. Mother, mother!"

She was evidently trying to support the sinking form, but all her strength could not prevent her from falling. And Bertram sprang forward in time to receive her in his arms as she fell back.

"Mother, O, my mother!" was the depairing cry.

"Don't be alarmed, Miss. She has only fainted. My home is here, close at hand, and if you will assist me, I will take your mother there."

The young woman obeyed him without a word, and with her assistance Ralph bore the senseless form to his elegant apartments. There was no light within the room, and after placing the inanimate form upon the sofa he groped his way to the match-safe and lighted the gas. As the soft radiance shone through the room he sprang back with an exclamation of surprise and delight. His pictures! The face of his idolized ones! At the sound the younger started up and looked toward him. How beautiful she was, with her hood falling back, and the damp waves of chestnut hair clinging to her broad, white forehead, and great lustrous eyes fixed upon him in wonder. Bertram could not speak.

"My mother!" she began with quivering lips.

"Pardon me! I forgot myself," and he went out, brought wines, cordials and labored until the blood stole back in little flashes and the dark eyes opened. For several moments she did not seem to understand the strange room and surroundings; but when the younger spoke, she said:

"Agnes, darling!"

"Mother, are you better?"

"Yes, yes."

Bertram sat in the window until they called him. The elder one was standing in the room, her mantle thrown around her and one hand resting upon the shoulder of her daughter.

"I wish to bid you good night, and thank you for your kindness. If it were in my power I would—"

"Madam, I beg you to sit down. I have spent months in searching for you, and I beg you, now that I have found you, to remain here. If you are willing to confer a favor upon me remain here to-night at least."

"Searching for us! What do you mean?"

"You will learn one day! I owe you all I possess."

She sat back seemingly petrified with astonishment.

"Who are you? I never met you! You owe me nothing."

"Will you remain here?"

"Yes, if you need us."

After a time the noble looking woman sat in a comfortable chair near the grate, her lovely daughter at her feet, and Ralph Bertram brought the sketch and told the story.

"I am Ralph Bertram," he answered smilingly.

"And the great picture of which we have read, was only poor mamma and I, sitting on the bank of that beautiful river in the country where we visited last summer. How strange!"

Agnes LaGrange was happy and contented in the splendid room, and with her head resting in her mother's lap heard her tell the story of her father's death, their flight across the sea from the beautiful home in France, of their struggles and hardships, and their utter loneliness, and smiled when Ralph Bertram gave his hand and begged them to accept his friendship.

* * * * * * * * *

The Art Gallery was crowded, and all the fashion of the city was out promenading up and down the grand saloon, and passing before Bertram's picture, to admire and compliment. All at once there was a buzz, and the crowd parted on either side. Down the opening came Bertram with a lady leaning on either arm, and as he passed a murmur went around:

Ralph was never happier nor prouder than when he stood with his fair companions and heard their words of praise, and when Agnes whispered:

"It is grand, Ralph, and I am proud of you."

"My darling, your praise is worth more than all else to me," he answered; and he pressed her hand tenderly, and looked into the dark eyes, worshiping her glorious beauty with all his heart.

Once more the world gathered to envy and admire, when the handsome artist stood before the altar in the great church, and they were made one.

A DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENT.—The New York correspondent of the Bulletin speaks of the marked "reaction from the Republican feeling of last year," and predicts that "our next President will be a Democrat." He says: As I write, it seems to be pretty well settled that Ohio and Pennsylvania have both gone Republican, by small majorities. The politicians generally have not been disappointed. Very few of the Democrats expected to carry those States, though they hoped for everything; and the Republicans were not over confident of success, though they generally thought they should win, even by that unknown distance—"the skin of their teeth." The New York election is coming very soon, and the chances are ten to one that the State will go Democratic, though the Republicans intend to make a lively fight for it on the strength of the nomination of General Sigel to tickle the Germans. There seems to have been everywhere a reaction from the Republican feeling of last year, and the way things are going now, if they keep on, our next President will be a Democrat.

WENDELL PHILLIPS ON THE ADMINISTRATION.—This is Wendell Phillips' last on the Administration: Meanwhile the strength of the opposition vote shows that the Administration has not satisfied the country. Its friends have rallied and secured another year of grace. The election of 1870 will turn more directly on the issue whether the Republican party has fulfilled the national expectation. In our opinion, unless the Administration files a better record during the coming year than that of the past, there will be a very even struggle between it and its foe—perhaps an ignominious defeat. By small majorities, after almost incredible effort, we have just saved the two great States—Pennsylvania and Ohio; any slight, untoward accident, even, would have lost them. It is poor dependence for a great party. We have drifted thus far on the strength of our soldier-President's reputation. He and the Cabinet must earn the future.

TREASURES IN HEAVEN.—We read of a philosopher, who, passing through a mart filled with articles of taste and luxury, made himself quite happy with this simple yet sage reflection: "How many things there are here that I do not want." Now this is just the reflection with which the earnest believer passes happily through the world. It is richly furnished with what are called good things. It has spots of honor and power to tempt the restless aspirings of ambition of every grade. It has gold and gems, houses and lands for the covetous and ostentatious. It has innumerable bowers of taste and luxury, where self-indulgence may revel. But the Christian whose piety is deep-toned, and whose spiritual conceptions are clear, looks over the world and exclaims, "How much there is here that I do not want! I have what is far better. My name is in Heaven."

Address of County Superintendent R. R. Darby,

BEFORE THE YOLO COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE, OCT. 6, 1869.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Institute:—It has afforded me great pleasure to meet you on the present occasion, and I hope it has been made an occasion of both profit and pleasure to all present. I believe, from the earnest, intelligent faces I recognize before me, that we have met fully comprehending the great object that has called us together. All organizations and societies have their convocations; these have for their object the promotion and advancement of the interests of their respective societies. The Teachers' Institute is not an exception. Since our last annual meeting we have all, doubtless, learned something of interest to the teacher's profession, which the present meeting will afford us an opportunity of giving our fellow teachers the benefit of. In other words, we have made some advancement in our profession. If not, then are we not keeping up with the march of universal progress that is seen in every department of life.

Less than three centuries ago Sir Francis Drake sailed from England, crossed the Atlantic, passed through the Straits of Magellan, spent the winter of 1579–80 in our own beautiful bay of San Francisco, crossed the Pacific, sailed round the southern part of Asia, doubled the Cape of Good Hope, and landed on the shores of his own native Albion in two years and ten months; and the civilized world stood amazed at the wonderful achievement. To-day the traveler may leave New York, cross the American continent, the Pacific Ocean, the southern part of Asia and the Indian Ocean, through the Straits of Babelmandel, up the Red Sea, through the Suez Canal, across the Mediterranean, France, England, the Atlantic Ocean, and back to New York in eighty days—all the way by steam except about 140 miles in India. Many of us, doubtless have been longer than that traveling from the Missouri to the Sacramento river. Your humble speaker spent one hundred days on that tiresome journey, which is now performed in one twentieth of that time or five days. Twenty-five years ago we were dependent alone upon mail facilities for communication between distant points, when the wonderful genius and untiring energy of Professor Morse set the world ablaze, and the people of Baltimore spoke to the people of Washington announcing the nomination of James K. Polk for the Presidency of the United States. Now almost every town and village on the continent are connected by telegraph, while two wires cross the Atlantic and a third is in contemplation. President Grant and Queen Victoria can converse by electricity and know what is transpiring in the two capitals at almost the same moment of actual time; and the time is not far distant when telegraph wires will encircle the entire globe. But we have not reached the ne plus ultra of advancement. While the present year marks the completion of two of the grandest achievements in the annals of human progress, viz, the Continental Railway and the Suez Canal, facts have been discovered which bring it entirely within the range of probability that the present century will not close before the completion of another, which, although of less importance in a utilitarian point of view, yet in the magnitude of its results will eclipse them both. I mean the conversion of the Sahara Desert into an inland sea, by means of a canal from the Atlantic ocean, which has been ascertained to be several fathoms above it.

While these results were being achieved, such minds as Lyttle, Hitchcock and Agassiz have traveled back through the dim records of the past, unfolding the sealed pages of the world's history, until they have developed a record of years which seems no less an eternity than the boundless future to which the great Creator has refused to set a period. But these great truths have been forced upon the public mind under a strong protest from the religious world, who believe the geological developments savor too strongly of infidelity, as they at once undermine our long-cherished ideas of the creation and age of our earth. But these giant minds resolved to be free, even amid the despotism of public opinion; and among themselves and with the great truths mined from nature's adamantine recesses, they forced us to set to work to discover the harmony between God's word and his works. And we have discovered that the science of geology, so far from conflicting with revelation, has thrown a new light upon it that has completely revolutionized public opinion as regards the age and creation of the world; that instead of the great creative mind speaking it into existence with its animal and vegetable life in six days of twenty-four hours each, it was accomplished by progressive steps extending through a period of years numbered by millions, and each period in the progression producing a flora and fauna peculiarly adapted to itself, until the last and crowning act in animal creation produced intellectual man, who, though in his original simplicity and purity possessnig the attributes of Deity, yet as compared with man of the nineteenth century, was the veriest barbarian, his animal propensities holding complete sway over his moral and intellectual nature. When this order of animal life had filled its mission, God, after selecting a few of the morally superior from which to repeople the earth, swept the antedeluvian world as with the besom of destruction. Man's advancement now becomes more rapid, and the moral gains control over the animal nature, while his intellectual faculties, assuming their high prerogative, sieze the helm and direct both, and he ascends by regular gradations through a period of fourteen thousand years, until the wonderful achievements referred to have been the result.

In view of these great truths, with "Excelsior" written on every sign-board that marks the path of life, we should realize and be alive to the fact that the teacher's profession is also progressive, and not be content to do as well as those who have preceded us; but, profiting by their experience, we should ascend at least one round higher on the ladder of progress, for ours is one generation farther advanced than theirs. You may say that the teacher's profession is not sufficiently remunerative to justify the preparation necessary to make a successful teacher. To him who sees no other reward save dollars and cents, this may be true; but to him who enjoys the consciousness of having assisted in elevating his race, there is a reward above money value. But to him who comprehends not the teacher's responsibilities, but believes that he will make a good teacher upon the hypothesis that he is good for nothing else, there is a fearful reward that he can comprehend only when he has comprehended the still more important fact that he is not fit to teach. Another class, not far removed from this, are those who are teaching merely for the money with which to purchase a subsistence while preparing for a so-called "higher profession," more congenial with their fastidious tastes. The sooner they are admitted to their higher profession the better for the teacher, the better for the parents, and a thousand times better for the children.

Fellow-teachers, I hope you will receive these remarks as merely general, for towards the teachers of the county I entertain none other than the kindest feelings. And allow me here to tender you my warmest thanks for the uniform courtesy extended to me by the teachers of Yolo county, and I can congratulate the friends of our public schools on having a better average class of teachers in our schools than we had a year ago, and I believe the prospects for our public schools are brightening in every respect, save one, which I cannot pass unnoticed. I refer to the action of the Board of Supervisors in levying the last taxes of the county: Little more than one year ago the taxpayers, by petition to the Board of Supervisors, had the school-tax raised to thirty-five cents on the one hundred dollars. At the last levy the Board reduced it to thirty cents, and, as far as I know, without any request from the tax payers for them to do so. Now, while I am willing to give the Board of Supervisors credit for acting from pure motives, I must contend that whenever they attempt to economize by reducing our school revenue they are laboring under a misapprehension of the wants and interests of the people.

A Beautiful Love Story.

The Count de St. Croix, belonging to one of the noblest and wealthiest families of France, became engaged, after a long courtship, to a lady his equal in position and fortune, and famous for her beauty. Shortly after the happy day was appointed which was to render two loving hearts one, the Count was ordered immediately to the siege of Sebastopol; so he girded on his sabre, and at the head of his regiment he marched on to the battle-field. During the Count's absence it happened that his beautiful affianced had the smallpox; and after hovering between life and death, she recovered, but found her beauty hopelessly lost. The disease had assumed, in her case, the most virulent character, and left her, not only disfigured, but seamed and scarred to such a frightful extent that she became hideous to herself, and resolved to pass the remainder of her days in the strictest seclusion.

A year passed away, when one day the Count, immediately on his return to France, accompanied by his valet, presented himself at the residence of his betrothed and solicited an interview. This was refused. He, however, with the persistence of a lover, pressed the suit, and finally the lady made her appearance very closely muffled in a veil. At the sound of her voice the Count rushed forward to embrace her, but, stepping aside, she tremblingly told him the story of her sorrow, and burst into tears. A heavenly smile broke over the Count's handsome features, as raising his hand above he exclaimed: "It is God's work! I am blind!" It was even so. When gallantly leading his regiment to the attack, a cannon ball passed so closely to his eyes that, while it left their expression unchanged and his countenance unmarked, it robbed him forever of sight. It is unnecessary to add that their marriage was shortly solemnized. It is said that at this day may be often seen at the Emperor's receptions an officer leaning upon the arm of a lady closely veiled, and they seem to be attracted to the spot by their love of music.

THE PONY AND THE LOCOMOTIVE.—The Oakland Transcript of the 8th inst. thus refers to the arrival of the iron horse in that terminal city: The event of to-day is an epoch in the history of Oakland. There are many among us to whom it seems as yesterday when the morning trip of the steamer Contra Costa, from the foot of Broadway, was delayed for the arrival of the first "Pony Express," and who participated in the enthusiastic cheering which greeted that first pony and his boy rider, as he galloped wearily down Broadway and was hurried on the boat with his precious freight—a small bag of letters To-day comes thundering into Oakland the great iron horse with tireless lungs, speeding along with an hundred tons of still and living freight, seven days from New York. Wonderful contrast! The comparison between that little mustang and the great iron horse—between that small bag of letters and the train of heavy cars laden with passengers and freight—between the weary galloping of horse flesh and the never-tiring force of steam—illustrates the progress of California, and crowds the mind with reflections beyond expression.

THE CELEBRATED GRAPE VINE.—A correspondent of the Sacramento Union, writing from San Buenaventura, Santa Barbara county, has the following in regard to the celebrated grape vine that we have all so often heard of:

"On a recent trip to Santa Barbara I paid a visit to our famous grape vine, which has received quite a celebrity. The main vine is forty-three years old, twenty-six inches in circumference, and yields annually four tons of grapes! This vine has a history. Forty years ago a Spanish lady enjoyed a ride to some neighboring hamlet; returning, she stuck the whip, which had been given her by some brave Señor, into the ground; it took root and grew; the result of that growth is the aforesaid vine. There are various reports as regards the amount of ground covered by its branches. Some enthusiastic admirers have reported as high as one acre; but such is not the case. As near as I could compute it, I found it to be one-eighth of an acre. It is of the native California species, and bears a large and luscious grape. It is, indeed, quite a curiosity, and worthy a visit from any one who comes to Santa Barbara."

THE FREE TRADE MOVEMENT.

We hear of the organization of Free Trade Leagues all over the country, and the movement for a reduction of the present exorbitant tariff, which hangs like a dead weight upon the industrial limbs of the country, is evidently rapidly gaining ground. It is time California had something specific to say on this matter, though the rousing Democratic majorities which she has given show unmistakably what ground she occupies. Free Trade is, as it always has been, Democratic doctrine; but it is not exclusively Democratic, for many of those who are most ardent and active in the present Free Trade movement belong to the party which has repeatedly raised the tariff until it has reached its present exorbitant rates.

To the farmers of California the Free Trade movement offers more, perhaps, than to any other class of men in the community. They have everything to gain, nothing to lose by its success. Should customs duties be abolished they would get more for their wheat than they are getting now, while the cost of everything they use would be largely reduced—upon an average at least one-half. From a plow to a suit of clothes or a set of harness, the price of everything is largely enhanced by the duties which add so much to the cost of foreign productions and so increase the cost of producing at home.

But the benefit of a reduction of the tariff would not accrue to one class in the community; it would be shared by all, even by the manufacturers, many of whom imagine that without a protective tariff they could not carry on business. Every one who has examined the subject knows that except in a few special cases, where manufacturers of one class get much more "protection" than is accorded their fellows, the manufacturers really suffer by the very legislation designed for their protection. The cost of the raw material, their machinery, everything that is necessary for their production, is so largely increased that the difference between the cost of their goods and the selling price is actually less, in most cases, than it would be were there no tariff at all.

It may seem paradoxical to assert that everybody loses by the tariff; but when the pay of revenue officers is considered, the necessity of using an increased amount of capital, and the immense loss by the transfer of labor to employments which are naturally less remunerative than those in which if left to itself it would engage, it will be seen that there is an immense annual loss to the country at large.

Considering the interest which California has in this matter, it is strange that the Free Trade movement has not met more active aid in this part of the country. We ought to have one Free Trade League, at least, and if the merchants of San Francisco were alive to their true interests they would start one.

DEATH OF GEORGE PEABODY.—The great and good George Peabody is dead. The telegraph informs us that he departed this life at his residence in London on the 4th instant. As our readers are aware, he was an American by birth and education—was born in Danvers, Massachusetts, February 18th, 1795, and consequently was 74 years of age. Since 1837 Mr. Peabody has resided permanently in England. He proved himself one of the most successful merchants and bankers the world has ever produced, in this or any other country, and was one of the most liberal in the bestowal of his wealth to purposes of education and charity. He gave, as we learn from the American Cyclopedia, $20,000 to found a lyceum and library in his native town, to which sum has since been added by him $70,000; his next munificent donation was that of $300,000, to establish a scientific institution in Baltimore, and this has since been increased; then to the first Grinnell Arctic expedition, $10,000; and for the benefit of the poor of London, the immense sum of $1,750,000. Besides all this, he gave, from time to time, liberal donations to alleviate suffering and elevate ignorant and downtrodden humanity. He was honored by sovereigns. All nations esteemed him living and will mourn his death. While on a recent visit to this country, the Queen of England, in her solicitude for his failing health, telegraphed inquiries regarding him. He has indeed been a benefactor to his race, and by his generous, disinterested liberality, had become the pride of his countrymen, the admired of the civilized world. Pity there are not more of our wealthy men like George Peabody in their consideration for the less fortunate. In this age of grasping and hoarding, his example was exceptional. his magnanimous deeds will live long after him, and posterity will repeat his name with pride and reverence.

NEW DRESS.—The Sacramento Record is out in a new dress, looking clean and tasty. A weekly is announced to appear in connection with the daily. We are glad to see the Record succeed as a business enterprise, but despise its politics. The boys worked hard and faithfully to establish it, and as printers are deserving of success.

OVERWHELMED BY A VOLCANO.—Latest advices from South America report several villages in the interior of Colombia destroyed by the eruption of a volcano, and nearly all their inhabitants killed.

DEATH OF TWO PROMINENT MEN.—Major General Wool died in Troy, New York, on the 10th inst., aged 80 years; also, on the 11th, in Washington, D. C., Hon. Robert J. Walker, aged 68 years.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10th, 1869.

THE CARNIVAL BALL.

The Mechanics' Institute Fair wound up last night with a grand masquerade ball. It was well attended and must have been a pecuniary success. The galleries, especially, were crowded. The scene was a most brilliant and amusing one, yet it is difficult to resist a feeling of contempt for the males who took a feminine delight in getting themselves up as schoolboys, sailors, brigands, etc. As for the other sex, it seems natural enough for them, and it is not to be wondered at that they should be willing to exchange their usual robes for a tasty, neatly-fitting costume which gives an unwonted chance for the display of personal attractions. All grades of San Francisco people were there, of course, the better class mostly as spectators. Theatrical people were out in full force, and among the costumed males counter-jumpers and barbers' clerks were largely in the ascendant.

MONETARY.

Times are really getting easier, and knowing ones predict that all will be right before long. The stoppage of the Times newspaper was a severe blow at public confidence. It looked like such a confession of weakness on the part of Alvinza Hayward, that it was regarded by many as justifying all that had been said about the impending failure of that gentleman, I am told that this feeling produced an immediate effect upon the deposits in the savings banks. For a week or two they had been steadily increasing, but the announcement that Hayward had let the Times drop produced an immediate reaction. Now, however, all is going smooth again.

NEWSPAPER MATTERS.

Speaking of the Times, I am informed that that paper was losing money at the rate of $5,000 per month when it stopped. It had been much nearer a paying point than that, but within the last few months its expenses had been largely increased in the way of new editorial force, more correspondents, etc. This additional outlay could not, of course, bear fruit at once; but both subscription list and advertising receipts were running up swiftly and steadily. No difficulty would have been met in disposing of it to parties who would have kept it going had the chance been offered. The Alta will keep the Times type, and will piece out a new dress for itself from it.

As for the various newspaper rumors, there is some basis of truth about them all, but nothing definite about any of them. Frank McCoppin is thinking of a newspaper enterprise; there has has been some talk of a new daily, with Harry George as editor; a number of printers are studying over the chances for a joint stock concern, and it is said that the Sacramento Union people think seriously of removing to this city after the Legislature adjourns. Some fire is sure to come out of so much smoke, but there is at present no such thing as a definite newspaper project afoot here, correspondents to the contrary notwithstanding. As for the Herald, that is a dead cock in the pit, though its type was bought in by Hoburg, Nugent's last right-hand man.

THE WAGES QUESTION.

Chicago competition is being made the most of, with a view of producing a sentiment in favor of the reduction of wages. Any one who understands the Bulletin's ways can see that this is the objective point towards which it is devoting all its energies. It is trying in a round about manner to get public sentiment in such a condition that it will find support in a struggle with the printers for a reduction in the price of composition from seventy-five to fifty cents, though this purpose is not avowed. The stopping of the Herald and the Times has thrown a good many printers out of employment, and the proprietors of the larger papers are said to be getting ready for a struggle for reduction, though whether they will attempt it depends upon the "looks of things" at the time. Upon their side, the printers have a thorough organization and a respectable surplus fund. They are paying the passage to the East of all who wish to go, and this measure, together with the increased work which will accrue from the session of the Legislature will probably enable them to bid defiance to employers. There is a strong disposition among employers of all kinds to force a reduction of wages. They see that either wages or their profits, which in many businesses have been exorbitant, must be reduced, and of course are going in for the former.

MATTERS MUNICIPAL.

The people of San Francisco have been felicitating themselves that the recent election broke up the ring in the Board of Supervisors, and that out of the new members and the hold-overs no seven could be had to go into a swindling combination. But strong efforts are being made to get up a new ring, and it is probable they will succeed. The two best men in the Board hold over, however, Ashbury (Rep.) and P. H. Canavan (Dem.) They of course would be powerless against a new ring, as they have been against the old; but they can do much in opposing and exposing its villanies. P. H. Canavan has by his course in the Board made himself, and justly, the most popular man in the city. He is perfectly fearless and can neither be intimidated, browbeaten or bribed, denouncing the ring and its measures on all occasions without circumlocution or equivocation, and is hated by the swindlers around the City Hall with a perfect hatred.

The Board of Education had another fight last night over the question whether Father Gallagher shall be allowed to teach catechism in the Tenth-street school or not. The question, after a good deal of wrangling, was left unsettled.

A LIVELY FIGHT.

A lively struggle is going on for the Reportership of the Fourth District Court. Charles A. Sumner, late managing editor of the Herald, and who rendered most effective service on the stump during the last campaign, is backed by nearly all the influential Democrats in the city, including the Supreme Court Judges Crockett and Sawyer. Father Gallagher on the other hand tells Morrison that Dougherty must be appointed. Dougherty is already reporter of the Third District Court, and the design is to get him the Fourth and Twelfth also, when he will be able to get the work done by proxy, and make some six or seven hundred dollars a month for doing nothing. As between the ability of the two there is no comparison; Sumner is one of the best reporters in the United States; nor is there any comparison between the political claims of the two. Sumner has rendered important service while Dougherty really worked for the Republican candidate. If the latter is appointed it will show the immense power Father Gallagher wields. Many Catholics express themselves as dissatisfied with his course. Z.

WORSE TIMES AHEAD.—The Louisville Courier-Journal says: The New York Tribune tells us complacently that "It is feared there are worse times ahead." Is it, forsooth? Worse times! Well, that is cool. A breakneck radical saint in the Treasury; a thundering ring in Wall street; little rings and big rings in every part of the country; three or four States held at the point of the bayonet; a mountain of debt; layers upon layers of taxation, and nobody at the White House but a solemn owl who lifts up his voice and exclaims with benignant iteration, "let us have peace." Better to say—better for the poor man, better for the rich man, better for the national credit, better for peace—"let us have justice." The Tribune is philosophic. We like that; but before these waves which dance upon the beach roll back, they will swell into a tempest that will sweep down all the radical barricades.

ILLINOIS.—It is thought the Conservatives will have sufficient strength in the Constitutional Convention to retain the word "white," and continue a white men's government.

DEMOCRATIC BOSTON.—On the 2d of November Boston gave a majority of 2,620 for Adams, the Democ atic candidate for Governor. Pretty good for the "Hub."

INCREASED MAJORITY.—The latest news from New York rolls up a Democratic majority in the State of twenty-five thousand.

TOWN AND COUNTY MATTERS.

"A LIGHT IN THE WINDOW FOR THEE."—It has been said, of a truth, "there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip." Two young gentlemen, aspiring to do the honor of escort to a couple of young ladies of our acquaintance, called and made their wishes known to that effect. But the ladies, having made prior engagements, were compelled against their wills to refuse the request; however, trusting to Dame Fortune—which is ever fickle, as proved in this case—stipulated that should they be relieved of present engagements a light should be placed in a window to indicate their liberty and willingness to accept. It is supposed that these devoted admirers repaired to some retired nook to patiently await the appearance of the beacon to present happiness. An inadvertent move on the part of a thoughtless party did place a light in that identical window, which caused at least two hearts to leap for joy, and two young men were immediately seen to emerge from a dark alley, humming the familiar tune adapted to the words, "There's a light in the window for thee," etc. We are informed by an eye-witness that they appeared at the door of the residence just in time to see the ladies, clad and gloved, depart for an evening stroll. When last seen, these young men were walking rapidly toward the Sacramento river. We hope it will not be our sad duty to chronicle their death by suicide.

THANSGIVING DAY.—Thursday next is the day appointed by the President and also by the Governor of California as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. On this subject we give the following extract from a communication which was handed in: "Prior to the war it was the custom of the Governors of the different States to issue their proclamations severally to their own people, and on such days as they deemed best, without regard to other States. But during the war, days for humiliation, fasting and prayer were first announced from the White House in Washington, and when the war came to an end a national proclamation of thanksgiving was published to all the people of the land. That custom has been continued; and there is something grand and inspiring in the thought that all the good people of this mighty nation, from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, are gathered at the call of the country's chief magistrate, on the same day, to render thanks, adoration and praise to the Giver of all good, the common Lord of all. In compliance with the call of the President of the United States and of the Governor of the State of California, the good people of Woodland and vicinity are requested to turn aside from their usual daily avocations and gratefully to observe as a day of thanksgiving and religious worship the day appointed—Thursday, Nov. 18th. There will be preaching in the Methodist Episcopal Church of this place at 10½ o'clock A. M. Subject: 'Human Progress,' by Rev. W. C. Damon."

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—On Friday, 5th instant, a shooting affray occurred at Capay, in this county, the particulars of which are as follows: R. C. Hunter owed Thos. Hays (better known as "Buttermilk Tom,") a sum of money, which the latter demanded and threatened to shoot Hunter unless he paid it. Constable Joel Woods attempted to arrest the belligerent individual, when the officer's life was also threatened. Woods then got his rifle and returned to the scene of the dispute. In the meantime Hays had held Hunter under cover of his pistol, and swore he would "drop him" if the officer raised his rifle, which, under the circumstances, was kept down. At this juncture a man by the name of Fowler prevailed on Hays to accompany him, telling him he would get the money. This gave Woods a chance to make an attempt to arrest his man, which he did not succeed in accomplishing until after several shots had been fired, by which no harm was done, however, except shooting Hays' horse through the head, and that not fatal. The majesty of the law was maintained by the brave officer, and "Buttermilk Tom" has nothing to do but repent of his misdeeds and take his meals at the expense of the county until his trial comes on at the next term of our County Court.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE.—The interesting ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new Catholic Church in this place was performed on Sunday last in the presence of a large number of spectators, the very Rev. Father Croke officiating. Rev. Father Gibney, of Sacramento, delivered an able discourse on the occasion, and Rev. Father Kelley rendered valuable assistance in the impressive ceremonies, at the conclusion of which all were invited to partake of a bountiful repast prepared by the lady members of the Church in different portions of the county. The various denominations in our midst were well represented on the grounds, in response to the cordial invitations extended by the priests and building committee. The building is now in course of rapid construction, and, when finished, it will be a decided improvement and ornament to the town.

CONDITION OF THE WOODLAND DISTRICT SCHOOL-HOUSE.—This subject was brought up at the Teachers' Institute last week, when it was stated in explanation that the present school property is now in litigation and that the case would probably be decided at the November term of Court, after which it was the intention of the Trustees to take the matter in hand immediately, and either improve the present building and grounds or provide other and more suitable. Whichever way the case turns, one thing is certain, to our minds, and that is, the building now in use is not such an one as Woodland should have—not in keeping with the wants of the community as regards capacity, adaptability, or appearance, and we hope soon to learn that a new and more commodious one is to be built.

ROAST HORSE.—A friend writes us from Buckeye that a day or two ago Mr. Rentz, taking advantage of the weather, determined to burn up a pile of straw near a large stack where two horses were tied. The wind at the time was from the South, but during the night it chopped round and blew a gale from the north, communicating the fire with the straw-stack. One of the horses broke loose, but the other poor beast failed to disengage himself, and the consequence was that when Rentz woke up the next morning he found a "roast horse" ready for breakfast; but the loss of the valuable animal took away his appetite. No damage except the loss of the horse and straw-stack.

SOME PEANUTS.—On Wednesday two wagon loads of peanuts, raised in this county, passed through town; the cargo contained 4,300 pounds and was consigned to Horning's ranch, in Capay Valley. Among the same carge we were shown a big cabbage weighing forty pounds. The general impression among those who saw the peanuts was that there were entirely too many of them for any ordinary sized valley; and as for that awful cabbage, that it would take too many men to handle it, and there might be some difficulty in getting it through some of the narrow places in Cache Creek canyon.

P. T. BARNUM.—J. G. Overshiner has placed before us that interesting work entitled "Struggles and Triumphs; or, Forty Years' Recollections of P. T. Barnum." The work is written by Barnum himself, and is gotten up in elegant and entertaining style. Mr. Overshiner is the authorized agent in this place, and is canvasing for the work. Price, cloth binding $4 50; leather, $5.

DESIRABLE LOCATION.—The Fabricius Tract is but a short distance from the railroad depot. The California Railroad will undoubtedly run through it. It is as rich soil as any in the county, and for beauty is admired by all. It is divided into Lots suitable for Homesteads. Call on C. S. Frost; he is selling very fast. *

CHURCH ITEMS.—Rev. W. C. Damon gives us this information: "The M. E. Church of this place held its first Quarterly Meeting for the present conference year, on Sunday, 1st instant, Presiding Elder J. B. Hill officiating. The attendance was good; number of communicants, 54; received into the Church, 7; collection for Presiding Elder, $32. Special meetings began with the Quarterly Meeting exercises, and there has been preaching every night since. These meetings will be continued during the coming week. The church building has lately undergone important repairs at a cost of about $500. An effort is at the same time being made to pay off a debt of $600, contracted at the time the church was erected. Let the friends of the cause come forward and help out this matter at once."

STILL ANOTHER.—Henry C. McCreary, a promising young lawyer of Sacramento, and evidently a very great favorite with that community, died in Sacramento, after a brief illness, on the 10th inst. Although but about 28 years of age, the modest merits of McCreary seem to have made their impression upon our people on this side of the river; for we hear on all sides expressions of regret and of praise for the deceased—tributes of sorrow and admiration which show how general a favorite he must have been with all who knew him.

WE TOLD YOU SO.—About six weeks ago we informed our readers of the departure of the indefatigable business man, B. M. Fleishman, for the East for the purpose of making arrangements to import goods direct from New York and other Eastern cities. We now take pleasure in announcing to our readers that Mr. F. has returned and has been highly successful in his efforts, as may be seen by the crowded condition of Fleishman & Kaufman's establishment, where all kinds of goods are being unpacked and rapidly sold at low prices. *

MUTUAL ADMIRATION.—The society of bachelors organized three weeks ago for purposes of mutaul admiration and protection against the entrancing influences of the fair sex, seems to be growing in favor. The list of membership numbers about thirty companionless owls, who hoot at the idea of mating, and seriously declare their intention, under a penalty, to ignore the bonds of matrimony forever. The society was reinforced at its late meeting by nearly a score of new members.

CHURCH AND CEMETERY.—Posters were issued from this office the past week announcing that the Union Church building will be sold on Saturday, 20th inst., the proceeds to be devoted to the improvement of the cemetery grounds. Lots will also be sold and deeds of the same given to purchasers. Persons having friends buried there can purchase lots containing the remains, thus obviating the necessity of removal.

WHO WOULDN'T BE A CLERK?—We understand that in accordance with the accustomed liberality of the firm, each of the handsome and obliging salesmen of Fleishman & Kaufman, upon the arrival of the senior partner from the East, was made the lucky recipient of valuable presents.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY.—Ruggles & Machefert, at the Post-office, have a fine assortment of watches and jewelry, of all kinds, suitable for presents at the approaching holidays. Jewelry, watches, etc., repaired in a workmanlike manner by L. Machefert.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—Prof. J. W. Brier, Jr., will deliver a lecture at Cottonwood this evening. Subject: "Shall woman vote?" The Prof. is spoken of as an entertaining lecturer. We are not advised which horn of the dilema he takes.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—The address of R. R Darby, County Superintendent, will be found on our first page. We have been furnished the proceedings entire by the Secretary, but our limited space precludes their publication until next week.

MORE RAIN.—On Wednesday afternoon it commenced raining again, and continued about twenty-four hours, wetting the ground nicely—just what the country needed.

An exchange says: "The surprising curative efficacy of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, in a great variety of chronic diseases, especially those which prove obstinate, and incurable by ordinary treatment, cannot be explained. Nature, aided by art, has here provided a rare combination of medicinal properties, wisely adapted to the cure of diseases common to all mankind."

The effect of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, even when taken for its cathartic properties, are very different from those of any other medicine prepared specially for that purpose.

There is no nausea or disturbance of the stomach, and instead of causing any sense of languor, or debility, it seems rather to invigorate the whole system, and excite the keenest appetite.

Among my customers there are some who have acted in such bad faith that I feel forced to call attention to them. A. G. & V. A. Whaley, W. R. Blevins, E. D. Beckett, A. Armsfield and L. These "shirks" and "confidence men" are the first among numerous others that my attention has been called to. The others will be attended to shortly; as I work for my means of supplying these fellows with "grub" and do not intend to let them enjoy it free, unless they do as other respectable men do—pay as they go.

Are all the babies hereafter born to be brought up on wire? "Come rest on this bosom," will hereafter read, "come rest on this iron clad." Flinty hearts and iron bosoms are too much. Men can't stand it.

TOO GOOD TO BE LOST.—A returned White Piner relates the following of a disgusted Dutchman:

A Dutchman left Austin for White Pine with something less than a mule load of provisions, tools and blankets, carrying them on his back. On his arrival, not finding a good lead come and meet him, he took on a big disgust and left for Austin, carrying with him his tools, blankets and provisions. On his way home a man driving an empty wagon overtook him, and seeing him so heavily loaded, asked him if he would not get in and ride.

"No, py Got!" was the answer.

"But," says the teamster, "my wagon is empty, and you are perfectly welcome."

"No, py Got!" replied he, "I learns dis Dutchman some tings! I learns him to go to Vite Pines! He carries tese blankets, py tam!"—Visalia Delta.

THE SUN FLOWER.—A correspondent of an exchange says: "The sun flower is very useful for many purposes. There is no seed that a chicken will fatten on so quick as that of the sun flower. The oil extracted from the seed is very useful in sickness. It will speedily cure colds, coughs and cramps. It is the best thing I ever fed t horses to give their hair a bright and glossy appearance, and given a foundered horse will give immediate relief. In fact, give a horse a small handful at each feeding and he will never founder. The stalk also makes a good substitute for bean poles while growing. I know one man that thinks he will have twenty five bushels. He planted and cultivated it the same as he did his corn. He is going to have it chopped up and fed his horses."

YOUR MINISTER.—A stirring writer, treating on another subject, incidentally says the following: "Poverty never commends an individual or an enterprise to public confidence and regard. If you wish your clergyman to be respected, appriciated and influential, do not compel him, through pinching poverty, to appear in the pulpit in a shabby apparel, to speak, it may be, to a congregation of well-dressed people. Though the sermon be excellent, yet if he be compelled by poverty to appear at church with a seedy coat, and a hat venerable for its antiquity, his influence, in this age, will be marred. It avails little to argue that it ought not to be."

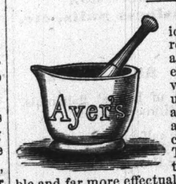
AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

For all the Purposes of a Laxative Medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterous drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity. They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills readily cure:—For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Langour and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action. For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it. For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required. For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear. For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge. For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy. As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. DR. J. C. The Science of Health!

Every Man his own Physician.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

— AND —

Disorders of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

The stomach is the great center which influences the health or disease of the system—abused or debilitated by excess—indigestion, offensive breath and physical prostration are the natural consequences. Allied to the brain, it is the source of headaches, mental depression, nervous complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The Liver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side, etc. The bowels sympathize by costiveness, diarrhœa and Dysentery. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

Erysipelas and Salt Rheum

Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent. To these the Ointment is especially antagonistic; its modus operandi is first to eradicate the venom and then complete the cure.

Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers.

Cases of many years' standing, that have pertinaciously refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have invariably succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

Eruptions of the Skin,

Arising from a bad state of the blood, or chronic diseases, are eradicated and a clear and transparent surface regained by the restorative action of this Ointment. It surpasses many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in its power to dispel rashes and other disfigurements of the face.

Female Complaints,

Whether in the young or old, married or single at the dawn of Womanhood, or the turn of life, these tonic medicines display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible in the health of the patient. Being a purely vegetable preparation. They are safe and reliable remedy for all classes of Females in every condition of health and station of life.

Piles and Fistula.

Every form and feature of these prevalent and stuborn diseases is eradicated locally and entirely by the use of this emolient; warm fomentations should precede its application. Its healing qualities will be found to be thorough and invariable.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Bunions, burns, chapped hands, chilblains, fistula, gout, lumbago, mercurial eruptions, piles, rheumatism, ringworm, salt-rheum, scalds, skin diseases, swelled glands, sore legs, sore breasts, sore heads, sore throats, sores of all kinds, sprains, stiff joints, tetter, ulcers, venereal sores and wounds of all kinds.

CAUTION.—See that the words "Holloway, New York and London," appear as a watermark on every leaf of the book of directions which enfolds each box or pot. No others are genuine. A handsome reward given for information leading to the detection of counterfeiters of the medicines and venders of the deceptive articles, knowing them to be such. Sold at the manufactory, No. 80 Maiden Lane, and by druggists and medicine dealers throughout the world. A great saving by taking the large sizes. Full instructions with every box or pot.

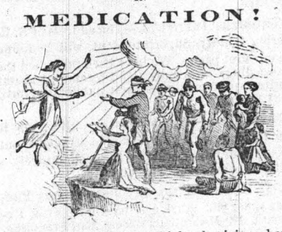
THE LATEST DISCOVERY

— IN —

MEDICATION!



The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A Vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

Dr. Erasmus Winslow's Liver and Stomach Lozenge is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supercede and banish from general use the nauseous pills and potions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than one thousand experiments were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and although the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation, sick or nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenges will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an anti-bilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. Erasmus Winslow's Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught, or pill.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and destroyed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.
